HPRA safety notice regarding the use of head lice treatments.

The HPRA is the competent authority for medical devices in Ireland. Its role is to monitor the safety of medical devices in Ireland after they are placed on the market.

The HPRA has published a Safety Notice to raise awareness of the risk of fire associated with some head lice treatment products. Schools have been asked to disseminate the information to parents and users of these devices.

Please find a copy of this Safety Notice attached. The Safety Notice is also available on the HPRA website www.hpra.ie at the following link:-
